

Twenty-three workshops have been presented simultaneously face-to-face and online specifically relating to MyCR. The other workshops are related to tools or techniques that are used in MyCR, discuss the pedagogy of online learning, or address other learning technology needs bringing the total workshops to 36 since July 20th. The workshops do not include other kinds of training that take place. I have also made myself available on a one-on-one basis and for small groups by appointment, in my office, virtually via CCC Confer, in the Lakeview Room (adjunct office), and in faculty offices. I have also had office “drop-ins” where training took place. I am also in frequent phone and email contact with faculty about their training needs and concerns. One of the purposes of the workshop emails I send out is to remind faculty that I am available at anytime. – Geoff Cain
