Course Student Learning Outcomes

1. Illustrate how the integration and regulation of organ systems affects the maintenance of homeostasis in the human body.
2. Relate the key functions of major organ systems with the cellular and molecular mechanisms that enable these functions.
3. Analyze example of disease processes and relate them to aberrations of normal physiological function.

Bio 7 Human Physiology

R. Reiner

General Information

This course is designed to provide students, particularly students of the health professions, with an introduction to Human Physiology. Included is the study of the function of all the organ systems that make up the human body. Special emphasis is given to the role of each system in maintaining homeostasis.

Structure of the Course:

Four Semester Units of Credit consisting of three (+) hours of lecture per week and one three-hour laboratory per week.

Fall Semester 2022

Lectures MW 8:30 am-9:55 am HU 110

Lab W 10:05 am-1:15 pm SC 104

Prerequisites: Satisfactory completion of Biology 1 Introductory Biology (or equivalent), Biology 6 Human Anatomy (or equivalent), and Chemistry 2 (or equivalent)

Textbook and Laboratory Manual:

Text: Human Anatomy and Physiology from OpenStax (a free online text)

The textbook for this class is available for free online, in web view and PDF format! You can also purchase a print version, if you prefer, via the campus bookstore or from OpenStax on Amazon.com

Link to the text: <https://openstax.org/details/books/anatomy-and-physiology>

The OpenStax text is heavy on the Anatomy and lighter on the Physiology. If you want a different Physiology textbook (preferably one titled Human Physiology), try Amazon or other websites that sell used texts. You don't need an expensive text and there are many decent used ones available.

Lab Text: there is no official lab manual. All the lab sheets necessary for the lab exercises will be posted on Canvas and should be printed as needed for the lab each week.

Course Evaluation and Grading:

Two lecture Exams @ 100 points each = 200 points total

One lecture final exam = 100 points = 100 points total

Laboratory write-ups = 100 % points total

One laboratory exam = 100 points total

(Note: The final course grade depends on the total points earned, as stated below. However, all the above grading criteria must be completed for a passing grade in the course. Thus, if one of the exams is missed or at least 75% of the laboratory write-ups are not turned in, a satisfactory evaluation cannot be given and the student will not receive a passing grade in the course.)

Lecture exams will cover lecture material and will consist mainly of essay questions. Each lab write-up will be discussed at the beginning of the lab. The lab exam will include written questions relating to experiments performed in the lab and the significance of the experiments. Be sure to contact the instructor in advance if there is any problem with respect to attendance in the lab period or attendance when there is a test.

Final course grades are based on the percentage of the total possible points earned. Percentages for the respective letter grades are as follows:

A = 93-100 %, A- = 90-92 %, B+ = 88-89 %, B = 83-87 %,

C+ = 78-79 %, C = 70-77 %, D = 60-69 %, F < 60%

Academic Integrity: Any student observed cheating will receive a zero grade for that assignment.

Office Hours:

I can meet for office hours after lecture on Mondays and after the completion of the lab on Wednesdays. Other times can be arranged if necessary.

If you have a disability or believe you might benefit from disability related services and may need accommodations, please see me or contact Disabled Students Programs and Services. Contact DSPS for requests for alternative media.

In the academic community, the high value placed on truth implies a corresponding intolerance of scholastic dishonesty. In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member. In such cases, where the instructor determines that a student has demonstrated academic dishonesty, the student may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or exam and may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Student behavior or speech that disrupts the instructional setting will not be tolerated. Disruptive conduct may include, but is not limited to: unwarranted interruptions; failure to adhere to instructor's directions; vulgar or obscene language; slurs or other forms of intimidation; and physically or verbally abusive behavior. In such cases where the instructor determines that a student has disrupted the educational process, a disruptive student may be temporarily removed from class. In addition, the student may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website.
