Catalog Description

Students will learn theories and techniques of public speaking, focusing on audience analysis, logical organization, rhetorical principles, and ethical speaking practices in virtual environments. Students will engage in critical analysis and research of socially significant issues. They will outline and deliver informative and persuasive speeches, based on their research. This course is meant to be offered online where students will apply theories and skills specific to delivering speeches effectively in virtual environments.

Course Student Learning Outcomes (from course outline of record)

1. Research, construct and deliver effective informative and persuasive speeches using accepted classical and rhetorical practices, models, and theories of communication.
2. Critically analyze oral communication, both as speakers and listeners.
3. Demonstrate ethical responsibilities in the communication process, including issues such as diversity, credibility, authority, and academic honesty
4. Apply theories and best practices for delivering effective presentations in virtual environments

Required Materials

Textbook: Mapes, M. (2019). Speak out, call in: Public speaking as advocacy. Pressbooks.

Other reading materials specific to online presentations will be made available through Canvas Modules.

Other requirements: High speed internet, a computer, and a webcam. It is not recommended that you try to take this class exclusively on a phone or tablet.

Student Support

Good information and clear communication about your needs will help you be successful. Please let your instructor know about any specific challenges or technology limitations that might affect your participation in class. College of the Redwoods wants every student to be successful.

Policies for this Class

Class Participation and Attendance Policy

Class activities, discussions, and lectures are designed to help you understand the material and do well on the assignments. It is also important for the other students that you engage with the discussion assignments. It is your responsibility to make sure you visit to Canvas and complete assignments every week. If you do not, it will count as an absence. College of the Redwoods allows instructors to drop students for “non-participation,” including missing more than one week in a row without contacting the instructor. If you are going to miss more than a week of class, remember to let me know that you are coming back. If you disappear from class after 10/30, I can no longer drop you from the class and will have to give you a grade. The way the assignments are weighted, and with the lost participation points, this will mean you will see an F on your transcripts.

Communication Guidelines

The most efficient way to contact me will be through the Canvas Inbox. Click Inbox on the left side of the browser, then click on the button that looks like a paper and pen. From there, select our course and start typing my name into the “To” box. By the time you get to “Chr” my name will show up in the drop down. Once you click on my name, the rest works like a normal email. You can even attach files.

I attempt to reply to emails within 2 hours during the day. After 5pm, it might take longer. If you send a message after 10pm, I may not get back to you until morning. If you send an email on the weekend, I may not reply until Monday. Please keep this in mind before sending a second message.

If you are having trouble with an assignment or any other part of the class, I encourage you to attend my Zoom office hours to ask questions or post your question in the associated discussion forum.

Under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), I am legally prohibited from discussing your attendance, participation, grades, or any other protected information with anyone other than you. The only exception is if you have a waiver on file with admissions and records. Even if you are under the age of 18 (I see you AR students), I am not allowed to discuss your academic performance with your parents without a waiver. Anyone can be in the room with you (with your permission), but I can only speak to you and answer your questions.

Accessibility

College of the Redwoods is committed to making reasonable accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. If you have a disability or believe you might benefit from disability-related services and accommodations, please contact your instructor or Disability Services and Programs for Students (DSPS). Students may make requests for alternative media by contacting DSPS based on their campus location:

- Eureka: 707-476-4280, student services building, 1st floor
- Del Norte: 707-465-2324, main building near library
- Klamath-Trinity: 530-625-4821 Ext 103

If you are taking online classes DSPS will email approved accommodations for distance education classes to your instructor. In the case of face-to-face instruction, please present your written accommodation request to your instructor at least one week before the needed accommodation so that necessary arrangements can be made. Last minute arrangements or post-test adjustments usually cannot be accommodated.

Evaluation & Grading Policy

I assess your work according to how well it meets class objectives, fulfills requirements, meets the assignment rubric, and reflects the academic skills expected of college students. It is your responsibility to understand why you have achieved a certain grade and what steps you can take to maintain or improve your grade. Please feel free to consult with me. However, please note that I will not discuss a grade on an assignment until at least two full days after the assignment has been graded. Take that time to review the assignment and the grading rubric in Canvas in order to clearly articulate your concerns to me.

Additional Assignment Policies

Reading: It is your responsibility to read the textbook chapter for the week no later than Wednesday, so you can answer the weekly discussion prompt. Classroom activities will assume that you have a basic understanding of the material for the week.

Due Dates: Late work causes extra burden and stress for both of us. I will accept written assignments late. However, you will lose 10% of your grade during the first week that an assignment is late and a further 10% each week thereafter. This means that if you submit a perfect piece of writing that is five weeks late, you will receive 50%. Late presentations may be made up but will automatically receive 70% credit.

Written Work: Written assignments should be turned in on Canvas as a .docx file by clicking the submission button in the assignment description. All written work should be double spaced, use a normal type font (Times, Arial, Calibri, etc.), and have regular 1" margins. Make sure you proofread for spelling, grammar, and punctuation. Do not rely on your memory of my description of the assignment when writing. Read the assignment description and rubric carefully and refer back to them multiple times before submitting.

Academic Honesty: All assignments submitted in this class must be your own, original work. In-text citations and bibliography entries are required every time you paraphrase, quote, or summarize work from any source. When in doubt, cite a source. Papers, journal entries, and speeches must be written specifically for this class. Do not submit anything you turned in for another assignment. This includes delivering a speech that was originally written as an essay for a different instructor. Any plagiarism I find will result in zero points for the assignment. If you are trying to figure out if something counts as plagiarism, check with me. I'll be happy to help.

Academic dishonesty

In the academic community, the high value placed on truth implies a corresponding intolerance of scholastic dishonesty. In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member. In such cases, where the instructor determines that a student has demonstrated academic dishonesty, the student may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or exam and may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Disruptive behavior

Student behavior or speech that disrupts the instructional setting will not be tolerated. Disruptive conduct may include, but is not limited to: unwarranted interruptions; failure to adhere to instructor's directions; vulgar or obscene language; slurs or other forms of intimidation; and physically or verbally abusive behavior. In such cases where the instructor determines that a student has disrupted the educational process, a disruptive student may be temporarily removed from class. In addition, the student may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Inclusive Language in the Classroom

College of the Redwoods aspires to create a learning environment in which all people feel comfortable in contributing their perspectives to classroom discussions. It therefore encourages instructors and students to use language that is inclusive and respectful.

Setting Your Preferred Name in Canvas

Students have the ability to have an alternate first name and pronouns to appear in Canvas. Contact Admissions & Records to request a change to your preferred first name and pronoun. Your Preferred Name will only be listed in Canvas. This does not change your legal name in our records. See the Student Information Update form.
