Catalog Description

An introductory survey communication course designed to increase interpersonal awareness and effectiveness in person-to-person communication settings. Students will read, discuss, and apply concepts and principles while developing skills dealing with the verbal and nonverbal transactions that occur in relationships.

Course Student Learning Outcomes

1. Apply Communication Studies' theories, principles, and models to interpersonal communication that takes place in various relational, social and/or cultural contexts.
2. Discuss the effect of communication on interpersonal relationships and social and cultural realities.
3. Demonstrate ethical responsibilities in the communication process, such as issues of rhetorical sensitivity, diversity, credibility, and academic integrity.

Student Commitment

This class will require at least as much time as you dedicate to a face-to-face class. California defines college semester credit hours in Carnegie units which is a one to two ratio between in-class time and homework. For example, a typical 3 credit hour class during a regular academic term will require 3 hours in class and an additional 6 hours of homework for a total of about 9 hours per week. If you are taking a total of 12 credits, you can expect to spend 36 hours a week on your college classes, which is why 12 credits is considered full time. I strongly suggest that you create a schedule that takes into account the total required hours per week for your courses and other obligations. You will need to carefully engage with online lectures and lessons, read textbook chapters, participate in online discussions, complete weekly quizzes, write application papers and create video assignments. Conscientiousness, attention to details, and skills in reading and writing are critical for success.

Instructor Commitment & Regular Effective Contact

I access this class on Canvas regularly and initiate online contact using weekly announcements, lectures and lesson materials, a Q & A forum, discussion forum comments, feedback on assignments, and by email, and/or the video conference tool. I facilitate the discussion forums and read every discussion forum post; although these are your discussions so much of the content of the discussion should take place between students. I dedicate as much or more time to this class compared to a face-to-face class.

Accessibility

College of the Redwoods is committed to making reasonable accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. If you have a disability or believe you might benefit from disability-related services and accommodations, please contact your instructor or Disability Services and Programs for Students (DSPS). Students may make requests for alternative media by contacting DSPS based on their campus location:

- Eureka: 707-476-4280, student services building, 1st floor
- Del Norte: 707-465-2324, main building near library
- Klamath-Trinity: 530-625-4821 Ext 103

If you are taking online classes DSPS will email approved accommodations for distance education classes to your instructor. In the case of face-to-face instruction, please present your written accommodation request to your instructor at least one week before the needed accommodation so that necessary arrangements can be made. Last minute arrangements or post-test adjustments usually cannot be accommodated. Students who discover access issues with this class should contact the instructor.

Technology skills

Students should be able to navigate the course learning management system (course website) and external websites, open and download files, use a word processor such as Google Docs, Microsoft Word (.docx) or similar compatible software, create presentation slides using Google Slides, Power Point or similar software, record and upload video files, and be able to convert files to rich text format (.rtf) or portable document format (.pdf) and submit files to the class website. It is the student's responsibility to meet the technological demands of the course, but there are online support and technical support resources available to support you.

Canvas & CR Technology support

As an instructor, I am available to assist you with course content and assignments, but my role does not include technical support. However, you should let me know if you are having technical difficulties that affect your participation in the course so that I know how to best support you, and if needed work out a short-term accommodation.

Before contacting Technical Support, you might visit the Online Support Page. For password issues with Canvas, Web Advisor or your mycr.redwoods.edu email, contact Technical Support or call 707-476-4160 or 800-641-0400 ext. 4160 between 8:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

- Canvas Studio – Canvas studio is a media tool that allows students and instructors to upload, create, edit, manage, share and discuss audio and video files. We will use this tool for some class discussions, the toolbox application assignment and the final Deep Dive Presentation assignment.
 - Canvas Studio uses a video and screen recording tool called Screencast-O-Matic which makes it easy to record both yourself and slides (or anything on your desktop) at the same time.
 - Note: You will need to give security permissions on your device for Studio to access the webcam and record the screen for Canvas Studio to work.

Student feedback policy

Students can expect assignment feedback and scores posted to the grade book within 10 days after the submission deadline. If feedback and scores are not posted to the grade book tool within 10 days after the submission deadline, I will notify students about when they can expect the scores or feedback to be posted.

Late Policy

You will need to turn all assignments in on time according to the due dates listed in the syllabus schedule and Modules on Canvas in order for the assignment to be eligible for full points.

- There will be no late work accepted for time-sensitive, and peer dependent assignments such as discussion posts, deep dive book group presentations, peer feedback, etc.
- For the individual assignments late work will be accepted up to 48 hours after a due date, with a 10% grade reduction the first day, and a 20% grade reduction the second day. The exception to the exception of late work is finals week/last week of class. I do not accept any work other than finals week related work beyond the Sunday prior to finals week.
- As long as the first quiz attempt is by the due date all remaining attempts available for subsequent quizzes (reading and lesson quizzes) may be submitted until the Sunday before finals week without a late penalty (ignore that Canvas marks late).

- The only exception to the late work policy is a major medical emergency or traumatic life event. You will need to scan and email verification, such as a copy of the doctor's note.
- Please see the extra credit assignments for the options available to make up points.

Communication with Instructor

Email is usually the best way to get a hold of me. Please use Canvas email for personal student-teacher communication. To access the email system in Canvas click on the “Inbox” link on the left dark grey bar to bring up your Canvas email. Clicking on the person icon in the “To:” address bar will allow you to choose the course, student or teacher, and then the person that you would like to email. Click on COMM 7, teacher, and choose my name, Lisa Sayles. Type a message in the message area and click send to send your message. I will access the class website regularly and respond to posted questions and email messages within 48 hours (and usually much sooner) during regular business days. If you do not hear back from me before this time frame, please initiate contact again.

There are other ways to communicate with me in our course, including announcements, a general Q & A discussion area, assignment comments, video conferences, and phone (if desired). You are welcome to reply with a comment or add questions on announcements. General questions (analogous to raising a hand in class) should be posted in the “Q & A” discussion forum. There is a link available to the Q & A at the end of each module.

Once we are back on campus you will be able to reach me on my office phone at 707-476-4313, or stop by my office in the Humanities building, room 108K, if you find yourself near the Eureka campus (not during the pandemic). In the meantime, please feel free to set up a time to communicate through Zoom, a video conference tool. Keep in mind that I am primarily available Monday – Friday, so plan accordingly.

Interpersonal Communication General Information & Course Policies

"Sometimes the greatest adventure is simply a conversation."

— Amadeus Wolfe

Communication is the primary method by which we as humans get all our needs met; physical, psychological, and emotional. This course is designed to increase interpersonal awareness and effectiveness in person-to-person communication, to include family, friends, work, and intimate relationships. The topics we cover will likely pertain directly and immediately to your life. Healthy interpersonal relationships are central to our happiness and well-being, and effective communication is critical to good relationships.

The main goal of this course is to give you an understanding of the theories, research, and concepts underlying the study of interpersonal communication. We will read, discuss, and use collaborative learning methods to apply concepts that deal with how to communicate effectively and how to avoid ineffective communication. Taking an interpersonal communication course gives you the opportunity to focus your attention on and strengthen an area of your life that may prove essential to your future success, both personally and professionally. An additional focus and benefit of this class will be to strengthen your practical communication skills. Through this formal study of communication, you will be encouraged to connect the conceptual material covered in class to your lived communication experiences.

Textbook & Readings

Textbook: This course uses the following free, open-source textbooks (and other web resources) for the equivalent of the primary textbook. No textbook needs to be purchased. See details in Canvas.

Usera, D. (Ed.). (2020). Communicating to Connect: Interpersonal Communication for Today. Licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Required book: Students will need to purchase ONE out of four books (below) for a virtual interpersonal book group assignment. Book groups will be assigned at the end of week 1 based on ranked preference – wait until book group assignment confirmation to purchase your book group book. These books are available in the CR bookstore, public libraries, on Audible or other audio book sites and new and used copies are available on Amazon and other similar sites. In addition, Amazon has a “Look Inside” feature for most of the books that will give you access to some of the book content. Again, you will purchase only ONE of the following titles.

Deep Dive Group #1: Applying the principles of nonviolent communication

- Rosenberg, M. (2015). 3rd edition. Nonviolent communication: A language of life. Encinitas, CA: PuddleDancer Press.

Deep Dive Group #2: Trust, betrayal, recovery and repair in romantic relationships.

- Gottman, J. and Silver, N. (2012). What makes love last? How to build trust and avoid betrayal. New York, NY: Simon & Schuster.

- Stone, D. and Heen, S. (2014). Thanks for the feedback: The science and art of receiving feedback well even when it is off base, unfair, poorly delivered, and, frankly, you’re not in the mood. New York, NY: Penguin Books.

Other requirements: High speed internet, relatively modern computer, and webcam or other device that creates video with audio.

Communication Guidelines

Effective communication is essentially about showing respect for both yourself and the other person. This class requires that students demonstrate mutual respect in their interactions. During the study of interpersonal communication issues may arise that are sometimes difficult and/or controversial. As an academic community we share a mutual responsibility to create and maintain a supportive classroom environment where all participants feel safe to speak up and apply new communication skills. This means that each student's ideas, feelings and questions are valued. It is okay not to agree with everything that is said in the class, either by your peers or myself. However, it is expected that you will be respectful of those with different opinions and perspectives than your own, and that you will ground your interactions in the course content and actively apply the principles of communication competence. Please make sure you watch the "Netiquette" video in the introduction module so that you are clear on my expectations regarding your online communication.

Online Office Hours

I will be available face-to-face conference sessions using Zoom during office hours. I am happy to set up other times to talk with you on the phone or using the Zoom conference tool if these days and times don't work for you. If you would like to speak on the phone, please email me to set up a day and time.

Confirm your presence in the online classroom

Log in to the website and submit a video post to the "Student Introductions/Attendance" discussions forum no later than 11:59 pm on Wednesday, 1/19/22 to confirm your presence in the online classroom and introduce yourself to me and the other students in the class. Doing so will confirm your enrollment in the course and avoid your being dropped as a "no show." Post both an initial introduction and reply to another student's post according to the directions. If you have trouble with the technology associated with submitting the introduction post please contact me by email and let me know that you are interested in continuing in the course and how I can assist you.

Online Organization & Participation

The Canvas modules contain all the activities and assignments for the course. This is where everything in the class is organized, so at the beginning of every week you should access each new topic module, read the topic introduction, objectives and to-do list page, and start working on the activities for the week. The items in the module are organized by topic and are generally presented in the order that you should engage with them, although there may be times when you will work on activities within a module simultaneously.

Plan to use and access the Canvas email system for the duration of this course. It is critically important that you check your email account regularly (ideally daily) while taking online classes. You can set up Canvas to copy your CR or personal email accounts. To find out more about setting up your Canvas email account see the Canvas Guide on Adding Contact Methods for Students. In addition, you should plan to access our course and participate in the online environment in Canvas several times per week. Online participation is critical to your success in this class.

Note: If students are "inactive" due to non-participation they may be dropped from the course.

Participation/Drop/Withdrawal

During the regular academic term student-initiated withdrawal may occur through the second week of class with nothing recorded on the student transcripts and from week's 2-10 with a recorded W (withdrawal). Administrative procedure (AP) 5075 allows instructors to withdraw students from class for non-participation through the 10th week of class. Participation means that you are actively completing assignments, not just logging in to Canvas. Non-participation for two weeks of assignments may result in involuntary withdrawal. No course withdrawal is allowed after the 10th week of class. Summer classes should note summer term specific withdrawal dates. Contact registration for dates specific to this summer course.

Reading

Reading should be completed by the date on which it is listed on the schedule in the syllabus. Lessons and activities are based upon the expectation that you have completed the reading.

Written Work

Most of the writing in this course falls under the category of report writing rather than essay writing. This is the kind of writing that most individuals will use in professional contexts. This is because you will essentially be applying concepts and reporting to or informing me or other students about your applications. See What is the difference between a report and essay and/or The difference between an essay and report for a short comparison between the two forms of writing. Generally, you will use sub-headings or respond by prompt in your papers.

All papers should be typed, one and a half or double-spaced; Times New Roman or Arial; 12-point font; 1" margins, and formatted using APA style guidelines. All written work requiring sources outside the text must be cited properly using in-text and end-of-text citations. The CR library site offers citation resources and there are resource librarians who will answer questions in person, by phone or email. The Purdue Online Writing Lab is also an excellent resource, as is the free tool Grammarly. Please be sure to carefully edit all papers for spelling, grammar, punctuation and organization. Mechanical aspects of writing will be taken into account for grading purposes. Online tutoring is available via the NetTutor link in Canvas.

Plagiarism

Do not copy lesson or lecture notes, information from the textbook, other student's work, or cut and paste from a website or other source and claim it as your own. I encourage you to make use of resources and academic quality materials to learn from others, but your contributions in the discussion forum, the activities, assignments, and exams must be your own work and clearly identify the work of others. If you incorporate the work of others into your writing, you need to cite and credit the work of others. I will consider a first incident of plagiarism a learning opportunity, but any incident(s) after that will be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer and the Humanities division dean. Students that plagiarize information will at minimum will receive a failing grade on the plagiarized assignment, will be turned in to the dean, and will be at risk of failing the course.

Academic dishonesty

In the academic community, the high value placed on truth implies a corresponding intolerance of scholastic dishonesty. In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member. In such cases, where the instructor determines that a student has demonstrated academic dishonesty, the student may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or exam and may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Disruptive behavior

Student behavior or speech that disrupts the instructional setting will not be tolerated. Disruptive conduct may include, but is not limited to: unwarranted interruptions; failure to adhere to instructor's directions; vulgar or obscene language; slurs or other forms of intimidation; and physically or verbally abusive behavior. In such cases where the instructor determines that a student has disrupted the educational process, a disruptive student may be temporarily removed from class. In addition, the student may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Language/content disclaimer:

During this class I may show film clips, play music and/or make use of textual materials that contain profanity, violence, and/or sexual content. These materials will be used to offer practical application of concepts, theories or ideas discussed in class. In addition, the instructor may occasionally use profanity.

Note: I reserve the right to establish additional policies, as I deem necessary to provide you with the best learning environment possible.

Interpersonal Communication Assignments

"Doing the best at this moment puts you in the best place for the next moment."
- Oprah Winfrey

Assignments

Assignments and grades are part of teaching and learning process. All major assignments are designed to help you integrate knowledge gained from this course. The assignments are important not only for learning assessment to take place, but also to reinforce long-term retention and understanding of human communication processes and skills. Note: interpersonal communication assignments do not necessitate that you disclose deeply personal information about yourself. Disclose at your comfort level. You may draw from any interpersonal relationships (work, friendships, etc.), or interactions that you feel comfortable using for the application process.

Class Discussion Forum Posts

This class includes both large class and small group discussions. The large class discussion forums are usually based on a lesson/chapter-related prompt. The small group discussions usually take place around the deep dive topics. You will receive up to a maximum of 14 points for postings and responses to other people's postings (see scoring below). Outside sources are not required for discussion postings, however if you do reference work outside of the text you must cite that material. You will access the discussion forum through modules in the class website. See more details in the discussion assignment.

Please note that depending on the configuration of the class one or more class discussions may take place in smaller self-organized groups based on gender identity/affiliation or the gender affiliated group that students would feel most comfortable having these conversations in. This group is not meant to suggest or support a gender binary, but rather to create a space that best facilitates discussions on potentially challenging topics, such as communicating about sex, should that be helpful. (42 pts possible).

Optional Peer Discussions

You will have the opportunity to engage in optional peer discussions with your student colleagues. Prompts for possible discussion are provided, but you are welcome to use these discussions in whatever way best meets your needs. Some students use this space as a study group or to organize peer editing/feedback and others discuss the reading(s) and lesson(s) or their thoughts and experiences in the class. The peer discussion areas are not graded and will not be monitored by the instructor. Students who are not interested in participating are not obligated to do so.

Online Class Lessons

Online class lessons will be delivered primarily in the form of audio or video lectures, text-based pages with videos, images, Power Point slides, etc. It is expected that you will have read the assigned text chapter prior to the lesson. Many lessons will be delivered using a program called SoftChalk which will include embedded quizzes and activities that are included in the quiz/exam grading category.

There are 10 points worth of quiz questions and/or activities embedded into each of the SoftChalk class lessons. I will use your best 10 quiz scores for the grade. Be sure to answer all of the lesson quiz questions and click “Finish” at the end of the lesson to submit your quiz score. If you don’t click Finish, then your lesson attempt will be incomplete and will not be calculated for your grade. After clicking Finish, you should see the score screen. You can click Score Receipt to email yourself a receipt with your score or print a certificate with your score. See the information page titled “Class Lessons and Lesson Quizzes” in the COMM 7 Resources module. You have unlimited attempts available for each lesson quiz (100 Points possible).

Chapter Reading Quizzes

There will be 12 quizzes on the chapter readings. Each lesson/chapter will have a quiz consisting of 10 timed multiple-choice, true-false, or matching items based on the week’s readings from the textbook. I will use the best 11 out of 12 quiz scores for your quiz grade. The chapter readings and at least one quiz attempt should be completed by Tuesday of each week as the balance of the activities build on this content. You will have 5 quiz attempts available, although please note that each new attempt will consist of a different set of questions from the test bank. As long as you have taken the quiz once by the Tuesday due date, you will be able to continue using any remaining attempts until the end of the term and these later attempts will not be considered late. Your highest score will be used for the quiz grade. Students will have 15 minutes to complete each quiz. While technically an open-book quiz, you will not have time to search and find all of the answers in the lecture or textbook. Each quiz will be worth 10 points. (110 pts possible).

Reflection Paper 1 & 2 Assignments

The reflection papers are intended to deepen your understanding of course content and give you the opportunity to reflect on your interpersonal communication competence and process. You will be asked to respond to question prompts that require reflection on text chapters and concepts in relation to your own interpersonal communication skills and experiences. The second reflection paper will ask you to receive feedback from someone that you communicate with interpersonally, so you might think about who that might be in advance. (40 possible points)

Communication Video Toolbox Application Assignment (Studio)

This course meets the oral communication requirement, which means that in addition to engaging with interpersonal communication theories, you will also develop your communication skills via interactions with other students and a final oral presentation. The Communication Toolbox assignment is intended to deepen your understanding of course content and give you the opportunity to add more tools to your communication “toolbox” by further developing your interpersonal communication skills in interactions with peers. There are two toolbox assignments this term. The first toolbox is on perception checking, supportive listening and active listening. The second toolbox is on assertive communication, climates and conflict resolution. See Canvas for more details. (30 points possible)

Interpersonal Deep Dive Book Group Assignment

This assignment will give you the opportunity to explore an interpersonal communication topic of interest to you in more depth by joining a “Deep Dive Book Group” (DDBG) where you will be assigned to a cohort of classmates who will read a common book from a pre-approved list. You will be placed in your deep dive group based upon your ranked preference of the pre-approved topics. The topics are associated with an expert in the field.

During the course of the term, I will ask you to reflect on your exploration of the deep dive concepts in relation to theories, topics, and concepts covered in the textbook and course lessons and also connect the deep dive topic to your lived communication experiences or observations (can include scenes from television or movies). The following topics are available for selection. For more information see the deep Dive group information pages in Canvas. DO NOT purchase books or plan on a topic until you have been assigned to a topic group. You will not need the book for the first deep dive discussion, but you should have it by week 4.

Deep Dive Group #1: Applying the principles of nonviolent communication

- Rosenberg, M. (2015). 3rd edition. Nonviolent communication: A language of life. Encinitas, CA:PuddleDancer Press.

Deep Dive Group #2: Trust, betrayal, recovery and repair in romantic relationships.

- Gottman, J. and Silver, N. (2012). What makes love last? How to build trust and avoid betrayal. New York, NY: Simon & Schuster.

Deep Dive Group #3: Courage, creativity, shame, and vulnerability in work & relationships.

- Brown, B. (2018). Dare to Lead: Brave work, tough conversations, whole hearts. New York, NY: Random House.

Deep Dive Group #4: Managing identity, emotions, blind spots and defensiveness in order to gather important information and have meaningful conversations via receiving feedback (and giving feedback to others).

- Stone, D. and Heen, S. (2014). Thanks for the feedback: The science and art of receiving feedback well *even when it is off base, unfair, poorly delivered, and frankly, you're not in the mood. New York, NY: Penguin.

Deep Dive Group Discussions

The deep dive group discussions take place in small groups that have all been assigned to the same deep dive topic. You will engage in a discussion with your group-based upon prompts provided by your instructor. These prompts will ask you to reflect on the material presented in your textbook readings and in the related class lessons and then to illustrate the connection between your textbook/lesson materials, the material you are reading/watching in your topic group, and your lived experiences. You will receive up to a maximum of 14 points for postings and responses to other people's postings (see scoring below).

Outside sources are not required for discussion postings, however if you do reference work outside of the text you must cite that material. The discussion forum is accessed on the class website. Each group has a deep dive page in the assignment module with discussion schedule and materials. Please feel free to adjust the schedule as needed and especially to go ahead more than is indicated.

Deep Dive Individual Video Presentation

At the end of the term, each deep dive group will present their topic to the rest of the class. Groups should organize who will present what information with the goal of presenting as much of the topic as possible. However, even though individual group members will present within the same assignment area and should consult with their deep dive group members in order to organize the presentations, the presentations are graded on an individual basis. Each student will present their topic to the class by providing a presentation via video with a visual aid. Each presenter will also create 3 discussion questions related to their presentation that will be included in their slides and video. If someone in the group fails to complete their presentation it will have no impact on the other group members, other than the fact that some sub-topics might not be presented to the class.

We essentially trade places at the end of the term, and you become the teachers in the class. The final presentation involves creating a slide deck and video presentation. After viewing the video presentation, the class will engage in a group discussion about the video by answering the discussion questions. See details in Canvas.

Deep Dive Presentation Discussion - Hosting and Participating

Hosts and Participants will have different responsibilities during the deep dive Lesson Discussion as follows:

□ Host Responsibilities

- In the discussion presentation topic area where your presentation is posted you will not be responsible for viewing or responding to your group member's presentation; you will only act as a presentation host and respond to students who submit discussion posts directly to your video presentation.
 - Respond to peer's posts to your presentation - You are responsible for including three discussion prompts in your slides and video based upon your presentation. The class will then answer those questions. When you are the presentation discussion host, you will be responsible for reading through the posts that answer your questions and for answering students' questions or providing further information/elaboration/encouragement.
 - You should respond to all post submitted to your presentation by participants who posted by the due date.

□ Participant Responsibilities

- In the other presentation topic discussion areas other than your own you will act as a participant and watch and respond to each individual video presentation.
 - Answer each presenter's discussion questions – Each group will have approximately 7-9 group members who will be presenting in each group area. When you are a participant (not hosting the discussion), you will submit a first post that will respond thoughtfully to a minimum of two of each of the presenter's discussion prompts. Your responses should be specific to the content of the presentation and should focus on making connections with text and lesson concepts and/or applying concepts.
 - Respond to another student's post - You will also post a minimum of one response post to another student's first post (select a post that doesn't have a response yet) for each group member's presentation discussion. Try to make connections between the presentation topic and the material from the textbook and/or an example from life.
