Academic dishonesty

In the academic community, the high value placed on truth implies a corresponding intolerance of scholastic dishonesty. In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member. In such cases, where the instructor determines that a student has demonstrated academic dishonesty, the student may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or exam and may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Disruptive behavior

Student behavior or speech that disrupts the instructional setting will not be tolerated. Disruptive conduct may include, but is not limited to: unwarranted interruptions; failure to adhere to instructor's directions; vulgar or obscene language; slurs or other forms of intimidation; and physically or verbally abusive behavior. In such cases where the instructor determines that a student has disrupted the educational process, a disruptive student may be temporarily removed from class. In addition, the student may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Inclusive Language in the Classroom

College of the Redwoods aspires to create a learning environment in which all people feel comfortable in contributing their perspectives to classroom discussions. It therefore encourages instructors and students to use language that is inclusive and respectful.

Text: Essential Elements for Guitar by Will Schmid and Bob Morris (Hal Leonard Pub. - 2005

Course Description: A course of group instruction in guitar at the beginning level. Course includes familiarization with the fretboard, fundamental rhythmic notation and chord symbols, common chord progressions, major scales, and the development of finger independence.

Course Objectives: By the end of the semester the student will be able to:

1. Immediately locate a given pitch on any string on which that pitch is playable.

2. Accurately realize rhythms from notation while maintaining a steady tempo.

3. Recognize chord symbols and play chord progressions from chord chart notation.

4. Develop sufficient right hand/left hand independence to achieve rhythmic accuracy and clarity of tone.

Grading: The final exam (which contains both a written and a performance component), the composite of weekly quiz grades, and the individual progress grade each count toward one-third of the final grade for the class. The individual progress grade is assigned as follows:

A: Student demonstrates complete mastery of all, or nearly all of the course's concepts.

B. Student demonstrates complete mastery of many of the course's principal concepts, and adequate mastery of all of them.

C. Student demonstrates adequate mastery of most of the courses principal concepts.

D. Student is unable to demonstrate adequate mastery of several of the
