Catalog Description

An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of Native American Studies, exploring the complexity and diversity of the Indigenous Peoples of the lands now called North America, with an emphasis on the lands now called the United States. It is centered on perspectives from Native North American Indigenous People and their Nations directly, gaining further insight from ‘Western’ academic fields such as the bio-physical sciences, humanities, social sciences, and critical social theory, such as the study of race, power, and class. Connecting Indigenous traditions with the work Indigenous Nations have and continue to do across the past, present, and future will be emphasized, especially around resistance and resilience, decolonization, environmental management, and sovereignty-building.

Course Student Learning Outcomes

1. Explain the interdisciplinary nature of Native American Studies and identify its major component parts.
2. Identify historical, economic, political, and social situations influencing Native American life.
3. Identify Native Americans as inheritors of multiple and complex cultures rather than as one homogeneous ethnic or ‘racial’ group.

READINGS

We will be using two sets of readings for this course:

- 1) First Peoples: A Documentary Survey of American Indian History 6TH EDITION (2018) by Collin Calloway; and
- 2) Various articles and readings I have selected (free digital copies—links to them will be within each Weekly Module).

The Calloway book is for sale at the CR bookstore. It is unfortunately expensive, but it is an outstanding piece of work. The bookstore may have it to rent. Since I will be using this book for future semesters, you should be able to sell it back to the bookstore at the end of the semester. It is also available on Amazon to either purchase or rent. You can buy it used on Amazon—(and sell it used on Amazon at the end of the semester). Renting on Amazon is probably the cheapest way to go. Make sure it is the 6th edition.

The library has recently purchased some eBooks for textbook reserve, and First Peoples is one of them. This eBook can be ‘checked out’ to one user at a time. Students off-campus will need to enter their WebAdvisor ID and 8-digit birth date to access. Please remember to close out the eBook when they are finished so other students can use it. Here’s the link:

<https://ebookcentral.proquest.com/lib/redwoods-ebooks/detail.action?docID=6642248>

<https://redwoods.libguides.com/OER-list>

Also, there are two physical copies available for 2-hour check out in the Eureka campus library during their open hours.

You are not required to print the articles out—but you certainly can if you want. EOPS students are provided with unlimited free printing—contact the EOPS office for more information.

COURSE GRADING

- Weekly Modules Position Paragraphs = 25%
- Weekly Modules Discussion posts = 25%
- Living Cultures essay = 20%
- Final research paper = 30%

OVERVIEW OF ASSIGNMENTS

- 1) Weekly modules. To be posted on Modules page of the course Canvas website. Each week's module will contain four assignments:
  - Reading or readings
  - Position paragraph about the reading(s)
  - Video or videos
  - Comment to a discussion forum about the video(s).

Details about each are on following pages.

- 2) Research paper topic. A 10-page research paper is due at the end of the semester (see below). The topic can be about anything having to do with Native North America (the lands now known as US, Canada, and Mexico). The topic requires my approval.

To submit your topic for my feedback and approval, email me a few sentences describing the topic. You can also set up a phone conversation with me. This is a required assignment, but not graded. I encourage you to pursue a topic about which you are passionate or strongly curious.

If you do not wish to pick your own topic, I will be posting a list of suggestions of topics to the Announcements section of the class Canvas site soon after the semester starts.

- 3) Living Cultures essay. This is a short report assigned in lieu of a mid-term exam. Details will be posted in the Announcements section the first week of the semester.

The goal of the assignment is to understand that Native cultures are alive and kicking. They do not exist solely in the past.

Pick an article from one of the two online newspapers I will give you. It must be an article about what a Tribal Nation or confederacy of Nations are doing today. Write an essay about the article. Minimum 2 pages, double-spaced.

- 4) Final research paper. Minimum 10 pages, double-spaced, on a topic of your choice. Full details (formatting, citations, and other instructions) as well as samples of top papers from previous semesters will be posted to the Announcements section of class Canvas site by the second week of the semester.

As per #2 above, the topic can be about anything having to do with Native North America (the lands now known as US, Canada, and Mexico). Personal experiences are welcome topics. This paper should serve you and your interests.

Please note: The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the content and format of the assignments, with sufficient notice to students.

WEEKLY MODULE ASSIGNMENTS

Each will be posted on Modules page of the class Canvas website over the course of the semester. Each week's module will contain four assignments:

- 1) Reading assignment: Some reading assignments will be a chapter or chapters from the textbook. Some reading assignments will be one or more articles. A link to the reading assignment is contained within the module.

I'm careful to limit the total page amount I assign you each week. Too often teachers overload students.

Tip: Skimming a reading is ok. I would rather have you do this than to skip it all together. A good method for skimming is reading the first couple of paragraphs, and then the first and last sentence of ensuing paragraphs, and then the last couple of paragraphs.

- 2) Position Paragraph (PP): You must write at least three sentences on the reading or readings assigned in that week's module.

PPs are quick and informal—just tell me a bit about your personal position on the reading assignment. This is your personal reaction or response to the reading assignment--how they made you feel, or how they changed your thinking, or how you object to or agree with the what the authors are saying. PPs are not graded on content, only by whether or not you submitted one. This is meant to give you freedom to say whatever you want.

PPs are submitted by uploading them to the PP assignment box contained in that week's module.

- 3) Video assignment: These will be either documentaries or lectures I record. A link to the video is contained within the module. Again, I'm careful to limit the length of what you have to watch.

- 4) Discussion forum post: For each video, you must submit at least one comment about it in the Discussion forum for that week's module. Your comment must be at least three sentences. A link to the forum is contained within the module.

Once you post your comment in the Discussion forum, you must cut and paste it into the Discussion assignment box contained in that week's module.

I highly encourage you to respond to each other's posts, or pose questions to each other. Engage each other; engage the material in the video assignment you are posting about. Raise issues. Share your experiences. Challenge yourself to look deeper and listen better. Speak up. Go there.

IT IS ESSENTIAL YOU READ THE ANNOUNCEMENTS ON THE CANVAS SITE THROUGHOUT THE SEMESTER. ALL ASSIGNMENTS WILL BE POSTED IN THE MODULES PAGE. PLEASE ALSO MONITOR YOUR CANVAS EMAIL.

DUE DATES

- 1) Weekly Modules = Due two weeks from when they are posted. Due dates will be posted in the Module title.

Due two weeks from when they are posted. Due dates will be posted in the Module title. Your first Weekly Module will be posted a few days after the class starts. You must submit them by 11:59pm on the due date—assignment boxes will close to submissions at that time.

I sometimes adjust readings and videos to better fit where the class seems to be going, or if I come across a new compelling piece. So not all modules are published at the start of the semester.

- 2) Research Paper Topic – September 26

You submit your Research Paper Topic by emailing me a few sentences about it. You can do that at any time. I encourage you not to wait until the last minute. I will reply with feedback and approval or denial. If denied, we will work together to figure out a topic.

- 3) Living Cultures Essay - October 17

By 11:59pm—assignment box will close to submissions at that time.

- 4) Final Research Paper - December 13

By 11:59pm--assignment box will close to submissions at that time.

In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member.
