Catalog Description

An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of Native American Studies, exploring the complexity and diversity of Indigenous Peoples of the lands now called North America, with an emphasis on the lands now called the United States. It is centered on perspectives from Native North American Indigenous People and their Nations directly, gaining further insight from “Western” academic fields such as the biological sciences, humanities, social sciences, and critical social theory, such as the study of race, power, and class. Connecting Indigenous traditions with the work Indigenous Nations have and continue to do across the past, present, and future, will be emphasized, especially around resistance and resilience, decolonization, environmental management, and sovereignty-building.

Course Student Learning Outcomes (from course outline of record)

1. Explain the interdisciplinary nature of Native American Studies and identify its major component parts.
2. Identify historical, economic, political, and social situations influencing Native American life.
3. Identify Native Americans as inheritors of multiple and complex cultures rather than as one homogenous ethnic or “racial” group.

PART 1: COURSE DETAILS

Course Description

An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of Native American Studies, exploring the complexity and diversity of Indigenous Peoples of the lands now called North America, with an emphasis on the lands now called the United States. It is centered on perspectives from Native North American Indigenous People and their Nations directly, gaining further insight from “Western” academic fields such as the bio-physical sciences, humanities, social sciences, and critical social theory, such as the study of race, power, and class. Connecting Indigenous traditions with the work Indigenous Nations have and continue to do across the past, present, and future, will be emphasized, especially around resistance and resilience, decolonization, environmental management, and sovereignty-building.

Course Student Learning Outcomes

1. Explain the interdisciplinary nature of Native American Studies and identify its major component parts.
2. Identify historical, economic, political, and social situations influencing Native American life.
3. Identify Native Americans as inheritors of multiple and complex cultures rather than as one homogenous ethnic or “racial” group.

Course Objectives

1. Learn to listen to Indigenous People. Develop recognition of their multiple and varied perspectives—enabling discussions of the diversity, complexity, and adaptability of Indigenous Nations over time.
2. Identify and discuss Indigenous Peoples’ and Nations’ connection to geographic place and bio-physical landscapes and their accumulation of expertise and experience in managing ecosystems.
3. Analyze and debate the changing social construction and diffusion of narratives about Indigenous Peoples, Euro-Americans, events in the lands now called North America. Understand the role of re-framing narratives as agents of change.
4. Identify, analyze, and debate the role of race and power (as well as class, gender, environment, and other intersections in social and environmental justice) in structuring societies and landscapes, and how Indigenous Peoples have and continue to help push towards a more just social structure and more sustainable environmental management.

5. Understand and discuss the long and continued forms of resistance, resilience, and resurgence of Indigenous Peoples from 1492 to the present.
6. Identify, analyze, and debate the ethical actions of students of Indigenous cultures in the past and present and the importance of ethical responsibility in working with Indigenous communities and individuals, and on their traditional territories.

PART 3: COURSE POLICIES

Assignment Submission

All assignments for this course will be submitted electronically through Canvas.

Attendance

Students missing one more class hour than the unit value for a particular course, without making prior arrangements may, at the instructor's option, be dropped without possibility of credit.

Communication

Announcements: The instructor will post Announcements throughout the summer session. Announcements stay in Canvas, but they also generate an email or a text message to notify students outside of Canvas. Students get to control those notifications. If students don't make any changes, they'll get an immediate email to their @redwoods.edu address whenever the instructor sends an Announcement.

Canvas Notification Preferences: Here are the Instructions for changing your notification preferences. To learn more about Canvas, try the Canvas Student Guides.

Communication With the Instructor: Good information and clear communication about your needs will help you be successful. Please let your instructor know about any specific challenges or technology limitations that might affect your participation in class. College of the Redwoods wants every student to be successful.

Email Correspondence: College of the Redwoods policy establishes email as the primary and official means of communication from the university to students. Students, therefore, need to use their College of the Redwoods email address for all communication and are encouraged to check their email daily. Moreover, students need to use proper etiquette; use a subject heading that directly applies to their inquiry; be specific in their requests and include all pertinent information.

Instructor Timeliness in Email Communication: Students will receive a response from the instructor within twenty-four hours.

Disruptive Behavior

Student behavior or speech that disrupts the instructional setting will not be tolerated. Disruptive conduct may include, but is not limited to: unwarranted interruptions; failure to adhere to instructor's directions; vulgar or obscene language; slurs or other forms of intimidation; and physically or verbally abusive behavior. In such cases where the instructor determines that a student has disrupted the educational process, a disruptive student may be temporarily removed from class. In addition, the student may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.

Grades

Canvas Grade Book: Points received for graded activities will be posted to the Canvas Grade Book. Click "Grades" from the Course Navigation menu at the left of the Canvas course home page to see grades. Students will see a visual indication of new grades posted on their Canvas home page under the link to this course.

Grading Inquiries: Upon receiving a score for an assignment students have a right to respectfully question the earned grade. Students must initiate this process within 24-hours of receiving the score.

Instructor Timeliness in Grading: Students will receive a grade for each "Documentary Quiz" immediately upon submission. Students will receive a grade for each "Discussion" usually within 7 days after the due date.

Inclusive Language in the Classroom

College of the Redwoods aspires to create a learning environment in which all people feel comfortable in contributing their perspectives to classroom discussions. It therefore encourages instructors and students to use language that is inclusive and respectful.

Late Work

The instructor fully understands each student's commitment to expand their education. As such, students may submit a late assignment up to 48 hours after an assignment due date. For example, assignments that are due on Sunday at 11:59 pm will be accepted through Tuesday at 11:59 pm. Note: Students should email the instructor for unforeseen circumstances that hinder their studies.

Student Honesty Policy Statement

Students are expected to exercise academic honesty and integrity. Violations such as cheating and plagiarism will result in disciplinary action which may include recommendation for dismissal.

Understand When to Drop This Course

It is the student's responsibility to understand when they need to consider disenrolling from a course. Refer to the College of the Redwoods Catalog for dates and deadlines for dropping a course, refund information, understanding how your GPA is affected, receiving an "Incomplete," and more.

1 Original	150 Words (at least)	10	Sunday, December 11 at 11:59 pm
1 Response	75 Words (at least)	5	Sunday, December 11 at 11:59 pm

Research Paper Selection (10 points total): This assignment is an opportunity for students to select their theme or topic for the Research Paper.

PART 5: ACADEMIC HONESTY POLICY & PROCEDURES

Academy Honesty & the Academic Community

In the academic community, the high value placed on truth implies a corresponding intolerance of scholastic dishonesty. In cases involving academic dishonesty, determination of the grade and of the student's status in the course is left primarily to the discretion of the faculty member. In such cases, where the instructor determines that a student has demonstrated academic dishonesty, the student may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or exam and may be reported to the Chief Student Services Officer or designee. The Student Code of Conduct (AP 5500) is available on the College of the Redwoods website. Additional information about the rights and responsibilities of students, Board policies, and administrative procedures is located in the College Catalog and on the College of the Redwoods website.
