Evaluation and Grading Policy

This Class will be graded using Letter Grade methods. Grading in this course will be based on three key areas: attendance, communication, and effort. Attendance is critical for success, as participation in class activities and practices ensures consistent development and learning. Communication is equally important and includes timely updates about absences, questions, or concerns. Clear and proactive communication demonstrates accountability and respect for the team and instructor. Finally, effort will be evaluated based on the energy and commitment displayed during practices, assignments, and any other activities. Students who consistently attend, communicate effectively, and put forth their best effort will excel in this course.
